Coding agent: you own the plumbing

	WHO HOLDS IT
Hosting, database, auth	You
AI keys and billing	You
Model choice	You
Live data	You
Getting found (SEO/GEO)	You

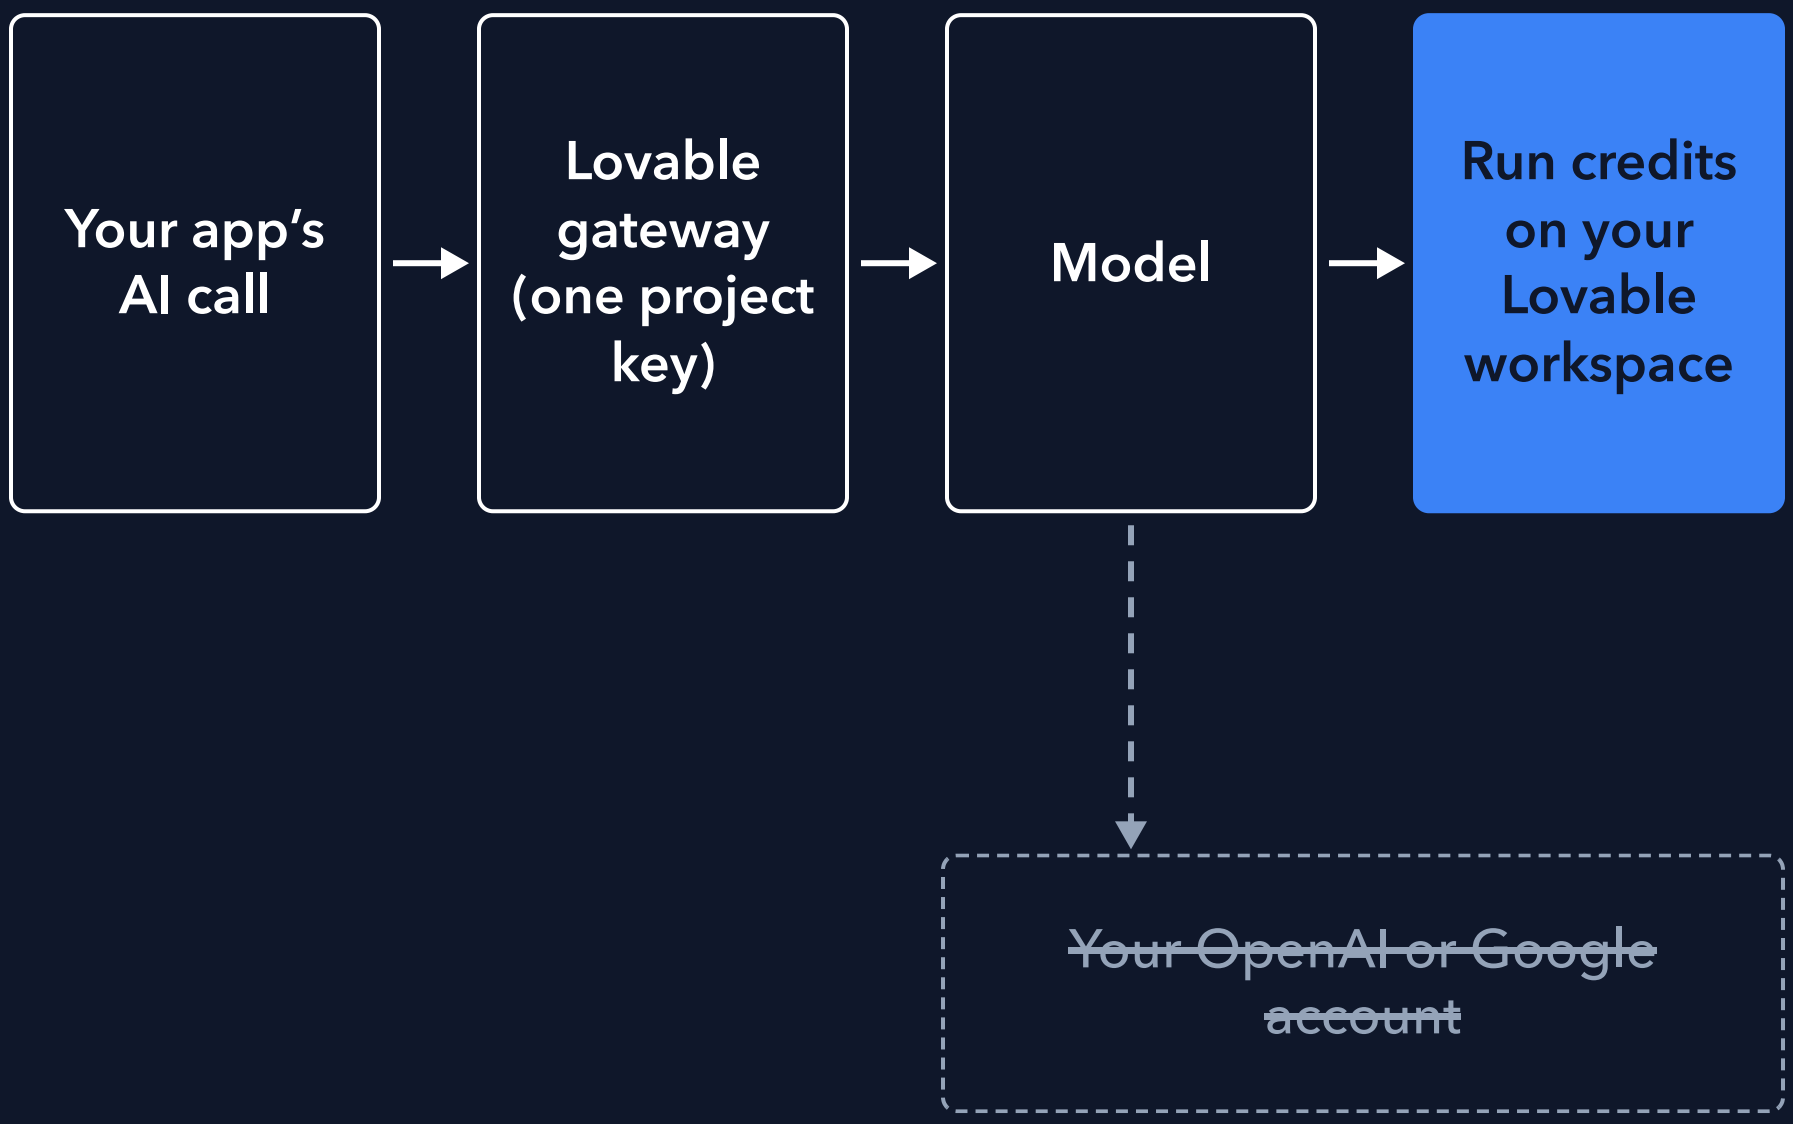

Coding agent (Claude Code, Cursor): edits your repo. You run, review and deploy.

Product agent: the platform holds it

	WHO HOLDS IT
Hosting, database, auth	Platform Cloud DB and secrets
AI keys and billing	Platform A1 one key per project, billed as Run credits
Model choice	Platform A2 a default plus alternates per use case
Live data	Platform A3 managed Firecrawl, Perplexity and Parallel, no vendor account
Getting found (SEO/GEO)	Platform A4 server rendering for apps since 2026-05-13, Markdown for verified AI crawlers

Sources: docs.lovable.dev/features/ai, /features/seo, /changelog (2026); agenda IDs A1–A4 from luma.com/35iuoq3d.

The AI bill moved inside the platform

Free AI grant: 4 credits a month, 'temporary', no rollover

`429` = rate-limited
`402` = out of credits

Source: Lovable docs, docs.lovable.dev/features/ai, 2026.

Model choice has an expiry date

NOV 6, 2026

build session

+83 days

JAN 28, 2027

Gemini 3.7 Flash stops

+13 days

NOV 19, 2026

Gemini 3.6 Flash stops

> An app built on a retired model may have to be re-pointed. Who does it: you or the platform?

Source: Lovable changelog, docs.lovable.dev/changelog, 2026. Day counts computed from the session date.

When the platform holds it, what's yours?

THE TEST	FRIDAY'S RESULT
Credits at 100 users A1
Swap a model after launch A2
Live data with no key A3
What AI crawlers actually see A4

Results in the follow-up ·
Level Up With Lovable · Brooklyn · Fri Nov 6

Alex Yedi