01 · BEFORE · MAX FREEMAN, RAMP

Ramp's core: govern the movement of money

01 SPEND "an employee needs to spend"

02 ROUTE "for approval"

03 CONTROL "that spend"

04 ACCOUNT "for it"

Built a $2B+ annualized-revenue business.

Buyer: office of the CFO

Source: Max Freeman (Ramp), GTM Intelligence: AI Night, Oct 2026; revenue: TNW, Oct 2026

Alex Yedi

02 · AFTER · MAX FREEMAN, RAMP

Same verbs: govern the consumption of intelligence

01
WORK

"an employee needs to perform work or perhaps an agent needs to perform work"

Glass
internal AI workspace

02
ROUTE

"the best possible model at the lowest possible cost"

Router
one endpoint, cheapest model that meets the bar

03
CONTROL

SAME VERB

04
ACCOUNT

SAME VERB

AI spend management

Product-to-verb mapping: Alex's read.

Source: Max Freeman (Ramp), Oct 2026; Router: TechCrunch, Aug 2026; Glass: Ramp via Crypto Briefing, Oct 2026

Alex Yedi

Same story. Different buyer.

SPEND / WORK | ROUTE | CONTROL | ACCOUNT

Office of the CFO

BUYS

Control

A clean close

Fewer surprises

Developers · Engineers · CIOs · CTOs

BUYS

Latency

Model choice

No friction

Max: “the hardest part of my job at the moment, by far.”

→ a specialized AE team finding repeatability first

What each side buys: Alex's read.

Source: Max Freeman (Ramp), fireside, Oct 2026

One story. Two discovery calls.

Who owns AI spend at your company: finance or engineering?

- ☐ Finance
- ☐ Engineering
- ☐ Nobody yet